

Our Future Forest: Beyond Bark Beetle is a series of 10 short films meant to help the public better understand the bark beetle outbreak in our local forests. The Medicine Bow-Routt National Forests in south central Wyoming and northern Colorado had the idea to produce this educational film series. They reached out to the Ruckelshaus Institute of Environment and Natural Resources at the University of Wyoming to help pull it off. The project took a year to complete, and was release to the public in spring of 2014. It is recommended to view the videos in the order of the menu. Please click on the following link <http://www.beyondbarkbeetles.org/>
Each video is 4 to 4.5 min long.